LinkedIn Interview Preparation – Virtual Interview

Product Management

Why LinkedIn? Build opportunity.

Your dream job could be helping millions find theirs. We're on a mission to connect every member of the global workforce with economic opportunity. LinkedIn was built to help professionals achieve more in their careers. Every day, millions of people use our products to make connections, discover opportunities, and gain insights. Our global reach means we get to make a direct impact on the world's workforce in ways no other company can. Here's your chance to make a huge impact on how the world works, while transforming your own career.

We build valuable products for the world.

Our one product ecosystem exists to achieve our company mission of creating economic opportunity for every member of the global workforce. We're a source of innovation and build products at scale. We embrace constraints to think more creatively and believe that product quality is everyone's job. Our Product organization builds brilliant and simple products that make our 710M+ members more productive and successful.

Product Managers at LinkedIn:

- Understand and lead analyses of the competitive environment, customers and product metrics to determine the right set of features to drive engagement and usage on LinkedIn
- Develop a comprehensive product roadmap to deliver on business goals
- Drive global product requirements definition, product planning and product design (including writing PRDs) of new features and enhancements
- Work cross-functionally and with the Product Development team to bring features live to the site
- Clearly communicate product benefits to our users and internal stakeholders

Your Interview Day(s)!

Structure of the Interview!

- You will meet with 4 members of the product team, 1:1 for 30 minutes each.
- Also included: a 15-minute greet with the recruiter and break(s), if applicable.
- This could be broken up into multiple days

The Interviews

Questions tend to be case-based and the intent is to assess your skills as a Product Manager. They will also want to learn about your background and experience. You'll be assessed in four major focus areas throughout the interview process:

1. You build quality products that members and customers want:

   Are you choosing the right set of features to pursue (i.e. Do the set of features you choose to pursue move the needle or allow us to gain insights we can build from)? Do you solve a member/customer need or pain point? Are these features well thought through?

2. You take initiative and get stuff done:

   Can you navigate an integrated ecosystem to launch features? Can you understand how to move in a scrappy way but produce scalable results? Can you make progress even in sub-optimal or constrained circumstances? Can you deduct insights and decisions from data?

3. You're a strong communicator, collaborator and leader:

Are you an inspiring communicator who brings clarity to ambiguous situations and can rally a group of people to achieve a shared goal? Are you someone people want to work with and follow? Do you collaborate well and effectively resolve disagreements?

4. You're a mission driven, ecosystem thinker:

   Can you not only share in the company vision, but a genuine commitment to upholding LinkedIn's culture and values? Can you understand the "whole" and how your "part" contributes to the whole? Can you make trade-off decisions for the good of the ecosystem vs. the good of your product? Are you a team player who doesn't take themselves too seriously, and "knows how to have fun?"

Interviewing can be a stressful process. Here are some helpful tips:

- Tip #1: Ask clarifying questions instead of making assumptions
- Tip #2: Verbalize and be clear and concise when answering questions.
- Tip #3: Visit our product blog to find out more about the different technologies and products we are working on, as well as get a feel for our product and company culture.

Below are links to learn more about the LinkedIn product organization and how to prep:

- Product Blog
- LinkedIn's Culture
- Product Interviewing Tips
- Ace the Interview
- Tools to help prepare

Lastly, ask relevant and appropriate questions about LinkedIn to show your interest. This is your chance to interview us to make sure that LinkedIn is the right fit for you.

Good luck with your interview!
Learn about #LinkedInLife